Hi Carol, the answer to Jim Harrington's inquiry is 'no'. EPA has no data in the Region 2 Superfund EDD database from Navy. We also do not get regular submittals from the Northrop-Grumman consultant. Katie advises she has an ongoing effort with NYSDEC to trade data, and that Earthsoft, a contractor for NYS is currently involved in setting up a separate database so that EPA and DEC will both be able to access. That will be a big help.

Regards again,
Rob

Hi Rob,

You may have seen this in EQUIS already, but the most recent groundwater data we currently have is from August 2012. I also checked Cathy's pending files to make sure there was anything else about to be uploaded and there doesn't seem to be.

We are undergoing efforts with NYSDEC to trade data on this site in particular. They apparently have everything we have, but if they have more recent data, as you suggest, we should be able to obtain the data you are looking for with this effort.

Basically, Earthsoft is setting up a separate database where NYSDEC and EPA will load datasets that we will both be able to access. I'll let you know once this effort is completed, as at this stage of the process, it is in Earthsoft's hands.

Hi Katie and Chloe, Please see Doug Garbarini's inquiry below pertaining to EPA's EDD. Jim H is Jim Harrington with NYSDEC and he apparently is asking if EPA has the electronic data from the Navy "Bethpage" site. I'd talked with Carol Stein recently, but she doesn't know if we "got" it.

It is basically a yes or no question, but if "no", I would like to suggest if you might coordinating with NYSDEC EDD to convert and send EPA their available data from the data providers. I'd talked with Brian Caldwell awhile back and he indicated they'd converted their NIRIS data regarding the site into NYSDEC EQiuS format and submitted it.

Hi Carol

This morning I forwarded you a voicemail from Jim H. He wanted to know how much we spent on the USGS study and (2) whether the recent navy data that we have is in our electronic system (equis).

Could you provide this info? I'll copy Rob as well in case he has the info.

thanks
